BLACKLOCK
JEWELLERY SINCE 1832

LOOKBOOK SPRING/SUMMER 2010

Blacklock Jewellery is a family business which has always enjoyed a reputation for quality.

Our founder, Robert March Blacklock, established Blacklock Jewellery in 1832 in Bedford Street, Sunderland. His aim was to bring to the North of England the opportunity to buy beautiful, refined jewellery. Blacklock's became established as one of the first diamond merchants in the North of England.

Today, six generations and more than 175 years on, Blacklock Jewellery is still family-owned, operating out of the North of England and London. We create bespoke jewellery with a personal touch, led by our customers and refined and finished to the highest possible standards.

A woman with dark hair is sitting on a concrete bench outdoors. She is wearing a grey, sleeveless, draped dress with a V-neckline and a matching skirt. She is looking down and to her right. The ground is covered with fallen autumn leaves in shades of yellow, orange, and brown. The overall image has a soft, muted color palette and a semi-transparent overlay.
